

HIDALGO

DriadeLab,

For a unique and original interior design, eccentric and at the same time extremely elegant, Hidalgo is a vertical sideboard with an unusual design, spokesperson for the Driade codes and style, for a contemporary home. Hidalgo is an anomalous cabinet: anomalous in shape, anomalous in concept, anomalous in its static nature. An extraordinary object that, although functional, has in its presence the distinctive and peculiar character that makes it closer to a sculpture than to a piece of furniture. A cabinet with an irregularly shaped structure made of curved plywood, three hinged doors with push-pull opening system and fixed internal shelves, Hidalgo has a considerable internal capacity, where it is possible to store a number of objects.

The exterior of the cabinet is veneered with wood veneer in the Flamed Multilaminar and Rigato Mosso Multilaminar finishes. In the painted version, the exterior is characterized by a shaded effect in two colors. In all versions, the internal side is plated with black laminate with a soft finish. The unusual support structure is made with a black painted steel tube or polished stainless steel.
